WHAT WAS NEWS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Reprinted from This Newspaper,

Advance on Richmond.

Early yesterday morning intelligence reached the city that the enemy in considerable force, had reached Bottom's Bridge, with the supposed intention of another advance on Richmond. As a consequence, considerable excitement resulted, and rumors were abundant and conflicting. Many believed that the demonstration was made by Beast Butler with the earnest intention of rescuing the Yankee prisoners now in Richmond, whilst others properly conjectured that it was a feint to divert attention from other and, at present more important points.

On Saturday night, about 9 o'clock, our pickets below Bottom's Bridge discovered that the enemy was advancing in some force—both cavalry and infantry. The pickets retired before them until the bridge was crossed, when a stand was made and the further advance of the enemy awaited. In the meantime a supporting force had been sent down to the bridge. At daylight yesterday the anticipated attempt to cross the bridge was made, but easily repulsed. Drawing off a few hundred yards, the enemy formed a line of battle. It was supposed that another effort to cross the Chickalfominy would be made, but finding our troops resolute the Yankees retired, whether to give up the struggle altogether or to await reinforcements is not known. Whilst attention was directed to this marier, a report obtained currency that the enemy was making a movement on the Rappahannock, and that the troops had crossed the river in considerable force. The report, though not altogether without foundation, was considerably exaggerated.

Swindell, of Covington, Alleghany Sir,—The Auditor of Public Accounts is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Isane Swindell, of Covington, Alleghany County, Virginia, inclosing petitions signed by a number of his neighbors and other citizens of Covington and Alleghany County, to the effect that he has been a resident of Covington and Val., for the past nine years; that he has been and is an industrious hardworking man, and that he has not neglected his family on account of the use of whiskey; that he has suffered for the past five years from rheumatism; that he is seventy-nine years of age, is a Confederate veteran having been a member of Carpenter's Battery.

The publication at that time referred to a letter in the office of the Auditor of Public Accounts filed with the certificate allowing relief to Mrs. Swindell as a needy Confederate woman, in which letter it was stated that the amount she received was nearly all she had to depend upon, and because of her husband's dissipated misleading and so unjust to the Norfolk and Western Railway and its subordinate officers that I beg leave to call attention to some of W. G.'s misstatements.

Every one acquainted with the rules hardly be considered much of an outrage.

Inasmuch as these men are taken home every Saturday by a special train, I see no hardship imposed on them by asking them to work until the 23d, and to return on the 29th does not look very much like injustice to any ene. W. G. seems to overlook the fact that the Norfolk and Western is a large corporation, engaged in important business, and that the stopping of work means a loss to them, as well as great inconvenience.

To the Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir.—While the Legislature is in session I hope some legislator will introduce a bill, and see that it is made a law, in regard to the shipment of chickens and calves.

I am a traveling man, and have seen many chickens, shipped in one coop to Richmond, die from the heat. Any dealer will tell you a chicken shipped a long distance in that condition will fall off in weight while in transit.

I have seen young calves too young to leave their mothers stand tied at the station nearly all day in the hot sun with nothing to cat, then put on the cars, have to ride all night to Richmond and not killed until the next afternoon. This is so on the Southern Railroad from Clarksville and South Boston to Richmond.

Meat killed in such a hungry and feverish condition is compelled to be unhealthy. I think there should be a law prohibiting the slaughter of calves under a certain age. The pure food people and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals should also look after this matter.
